Dear Student,

If you have won a place for partial studies for the Spring semester, you will not have at least one finished semester (which is needed to the Campus Mundi application) until the Corvinus CM application deadline, as you have just started your studies at CUB.

With this in mind, we tried to find a bridging solution that helps you have the opportunity to apply for the CM scholarship.

For you, the final deadline of the CM application is the day before the start date of your partial study mobility. This means that, for example, if the semester at the host institution starts on 5th January, you can finalise your CM application by 4th January, at the latest. If you submit an application after this date, you will lose so many days of your CM scholarship as many days after the deadline you submitted your application.

It is therefore suggested to prepare every application document in time in order to be able to obtain the so called „Képzési adatok igazolás” (Confirmation of your studies at CUB) from the Student Registration Office and submit your CM application as soon as you completed your exams and your first semester (Fall semester) is closed in the Neptun system. Also, it is highly recommended to take all exams as early as possible in order to avoid the late completion of the semester at Corvinus which may result in submitting the CM application too late.

If you are travelling to an Erasmus+ country, your institutional Erasmus+ Coordinator will contact you in around October-November and inform you about the documentation process. We kindly ask you to let him/her know if you are planning to apply for Campus Mundi scholarship because then your coordinator will prepare a so called ‘zero grant’ Erasmus+ contract for you.

Later on, in case of a rejected CM application, your Erasmus+ financial status can be modified from ‘zero grant’ to ‘granted’ and you can receive Erasmus+ scholarship. You can request it by sending an e-mail to your institutional Erasmus+ coordinator. You’ll get the Erasmus+ scholarship but – as the CM application increased the length of the whole administrative process - somewhat later than the beginning of your mobility. Even in case of a successful CM application the financial support might arrive to your bank account later than you start your mobility abroad.

The decision is yours: You choose the secure Erasmus+ support, which you can receive much more likely before your partial studies begin abroad OR you apply for Campus Mundi scholarship which you can get considerably later and in case you do not win it, you’ll get the Erasmus+ scholarship even later.

We kindly ask you to inform your institutional Erasmus+ coordinator about your decision in any cases as he/she must prepare your Erasmus+ grant agreement according to it.
