

György Lengyel (ed.)

DELIBERATIVE METHODS IN LOCAL SOCIETY RESEARCH
The Kaposvár Experiences

DELIBERATIVE METHODS
IN LOCAL SOCIETY RESEARCH

THE KAPOSVÁR EXPERIENCES

György Lengyel (ed.)

2009

Budapest

Corvinus University of Budapest, Centre for Empirical Social Research –
Új Mandátum Publisher

© György Lengyel, Corvinus, CESR

English copy editors: Gabriella Göbl, Zita Herman, Simon Milton

Cover design: Tamás Krauter

Technical editor: Mónika Petromán

Published: Lagrade Kft. Attila Tompai

ISBN 978-963-287-021-2

CONTENTS

Acknowledgement

Introduction

György Lengyel: From Community Forums to Civic Discussions 9

I. Deliberative Poll

Lilla Tóth–Borbála Göncz: Approaches and experiences of previous Deliberative Polling 21

Zita Herman–Zsófia Ignácz: Knowledge gain and attitude change during a deliberative poll: the DP on unemployment in the Kaposvár Region 29

Lilla Vicsek–Anikó Gregor–Marcell Márkus: Explaining the decision to participate – Can attendance at the deliberative weekend be explained using a rational choice theory approach? 55

Eszter Bakonyi: Attitudes towards economic competition in the Kaposvár Region 75

Ivett Szalma: Changing opinion in the deliberation groups about the state's role in the labour market 89

Borbála Göncz: Deliberated opinions and attitudes on the EU 109

Lilla Tóth: The impact of personal and social resources on the perception of group behavior and attitudes 127

James Fishkin–György Lengyel–Robert C. Luskin–Alice Siu:
The Kaposvár Deliberative Poll: Considered opinions on unemployment 141

II. Citizens Jury

Gábor Király–Réka Várnagy: Citizens Jury in Kaposvár 151

Éva Vépy–Schlemmer: Citizens Jury on education and unemployment 175

Appendix

Appendix 1. Questionnaire 191

Appendix 2. Briefing material 211

Appendix 3. Tables 224

Appendix 4. List of organizers, experts and moderators 235

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

We render thanks to the participants and volunteers of the deliberative event. The publication of this volume was made possible through the 6th Framework Program of the EU and by the International Visegrad Fund. We would like to thank for support the leaders of the IntUne project, Professors Maurizio Cotta and Pierangelo Isernia of Siena University. We acknowledge the co-operativity of Mr. Gábor Duránszkay, director of TNS Hungary and Professor László Balogh, Dean of Kaposvár University. We appreciate the comments of Gopalakrishnan Karunanithi, Zuza Kusa, Pavel Nejd, Jozef Niznik, Éva Perpék, Jelena Pesic, Marek Skovajsa and other participants of the Veszprém Workshop devoted to discussion of the first results of the research.