Political, Economic, and Ideological Tectonics in and around Europe
6th Postgraduate Conference of the Doctoral School of International Relations and Political Science at Corvinus University of Budapest

Date: 29 February – 1 March, 2024
Venue: Corvinus University of Budapest / MS Teams
Reg. fee: 50 EUR

The conference provides an exceptional platform for doctoral students to present their research and receive valuable feedback from experts in their respective fields. The event is held in a hybrid format, and thus, online participation is possible. We encourage doctoral students from across the globe to submit their abstracts on the ongoing tectonic shifts within Europe and its surrounding regions, focusing on one of the three key areas:

- Ukrainian-Russian Conflict
  The conflict triggered significant geopolitical changes, disrupted energy supply lines, led to NATO accessions, and sparked diverse ideological and moral interpretations that divided public opinion within the EU. Day by day, a new Ukraine and Russia are taking shape.

- Unfolding of the Middle East
  The situation in the Middle East carries profound implications for politics, economics, ideologies, history, and religion, having repercussions not only within the Middle East but also globally. Instability in the region can influence international diplomacy and strategies.

- Impact on the European Union
  Leaders have to respond to these challenges. The questions arise: Has the Union's integrity and cohesion been compromised or strengthened? Are new alliances forming, particularly in the Northern zone? Can Hungary effectively preside over it with all the disputes?

Abstracts no longer than 250 words should be sent to peit2024@uni-corvinus.hu.

The deadline for applications is 1 January 2024.

Results will be announced by the end of January 2024 after which registration and payment processing will be open until 5 February 2024. If your abstract is not selected, it is still possible to participate without presenting. Regrettably, we cannot offer travel grants or other discounts. We recommend that students consult with their department about covering travel and accommodation-related expenses. We do not plan a post-conference publication.
